Chapter 3 Topic : A Friend in Need
Skills Focus : Point of View

When writing your composition, do you choose a name for your main character (e.g., John/She was walking home from school or are you the main character (e.g., I was walking home from school)? What you are doing is choosing a point of view.

All compositions are written from a point of view. As a writer, you have to strategically choose the point of view you want to take to develop your composition well.

In this chapter you will learn the following points of view (POV):

- First person POV
- Second person POV
- Third person POV (limited)
- Third person POV (omniscient/all knowing)

Chapter Overview

You will start planning to write a composition based on the topic a friend in need in these stages:

- (1) Understanding the question
- (2) Generating and selecting ideas based on:
 - the topic 'a friend in need'
 - the given pictures
- (3) Organising ideas for:
 - texts that entertain with a point of view
 - hybrid texts taking a point of view

You will demonstrate the writing skill of taking a point of view for a composition on the topic 'a friend in need'.

Chapter 3 A Friend in Need | Point of View

Topic 3: A Friend in Need

Write a composition of at least 150 words about a friend in need.

The pictures are provided to help you think about this topic.

Your composition should be based on one or more of these pictures.

Consider the following points when you plan your composition:

- Why was the friend in need?
- What kind of help was provided?

You may use the points in any order and include other relevant points as well.

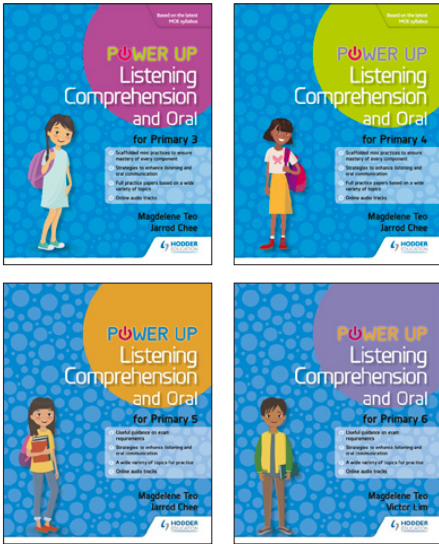

Tip 1

The ideas generated for the topic a friend in need can be used for other topics related to friendship such as a special friend, making a new friend as well as an unforgettable friendship.

Some students may rush into elaborating the type of help provided to the friend in need. While that is important, you should also fully develop the type of problem the friend had encountered. Perhaps it could be a family issue or a fight between friends? Could the friend have been caught cheating or a victim of bullying? Perhaps the problem could also be a combination of two or more factors. Similarly, more than one type of help may be needed to solve the problem.
